ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

On behalf of the 2024 Yearbook team, we would like to express our deepest gratitude to all those who have made this project possible.

To our esteemed Vice Chancellor, Prof. Mwenda Ntarangwi, your unwavering support and visionary leadership have been instrumental in this endeavor. We also extend our sincere thanks to the Deputy Vice Chancellor, Student Life, Dr. Victor Boiyo, for your commitment to enriching the student experience at USIU-Africa.

A special acknowledgment goes to the Dean of Students, Mr. Ronald Kimani, and the Dean's office, whose guidance and encouragement were key in bringing this yearbook to life. We are equally thankful to Mr. Chris Ayuoyi, for your invaluable support and contributions throughout the process.

Our heartfelt appreciation also goes to the USIU-Africa Marketing and Communications Office, for your creative and strategic input, and to Dr. Ruth Mwai and the Registrar's Office, for your administrative support. Your efficiency has been critical in the success of this project.

We are grateful to the 2024 Graduation Committee, whose tireless work ensured that this momentous occasion was captured beautifully in the yearbook. The ICT Team also deserves special recognition for ensuring all our technological needs were met seamlessly.

Finally, to the Graduating Class of 2024, we thank you for showing up when called upon. Your engagement, enthusiasm, and spirit are the heart of this yearbook, and it has been an honor to capture your journey.

Thank you

Otieno John Kennedy (JK)

Editor-in-Chief

I do not know much about excellence. I may know nothing at all about it. However, here is what I think:

Excellence is an experience that needs no explanation. When you encounter it, it will be obvious to you. It is not a tangible item that you can give to someone nor can you take it away from them. It is an idea. Something that we strive for, even though we may never achieve.

Excellence does not come easy. Its pursuit can be a very frustrating, daunting, and painful endeavor. You have to dedicate yourself to it. You will face challenges and obstacles as you strive toward excellence. Some of them are of your own making. Despite this, you must not waver in your quest. Let those challenges and obstacles lead you toward discovering alternative approaches and new ways of navigating this complex conundrum we call life.

Excellence is infectious and contagious. It is its nature to leave an imprint on everything and everyone that comes into contact with it. Excellent people improve everything in their orbit. In the same way, excellent encounters leave lasting positive impressions on everyone who experiences them.

How can we embody excellence? To put it simply: do the right thing. Excellence is the result of caring about what we do and putting our very best effort into the things we care about. It is our attitude and approach toward the things we do that translates into excellence. It is the reflection of our passion and commitment. It involves consistently trying to surpass expectations and striving for the highest standards of achievement. It is about pushing the envelope and raising the bar beyond the prevailing standards, wherever you are.

As you graduate, I wish you the absolute best of luck in everything that you do. Take that fancy USIU-Africa degree and use it to share your excellence with the world.

I am rooting for you!

"Empowered to Deliver Excellently!

I am sure you have had time to reflect on your journey here at USIU-Africa and have many memories. Memories of laughter, of connections, of challenges, of last minute triumphs, and even catastrophes. But you have made it and you are now officially a member of the graduating class of 2024!

This is the year I also joined this great institution and there are two things I have set as my guiding light for what I will do in my leadership—excellence and integrity. It is not coincidental that the theme for this Yearbook is "Empowering Excellence." It is meant to be and we are connected by our individual and collective desire for excellence.

Your education at USIU-Africa was the building blocks of your next steps towards excellence. I know you will go out and make a difference because that is what USIU-Africa graduates do. It is in their DNA.

As you chart that path, please pay attention to the following areas that when done well, will empower you to deliver excellence in all you do and become: first, strive to continually improve yourself in order to become the best version of yourself; second, don't just set goals for yourself, do so with purpose and passion, both of which should be grounded in the values we have emphasized here especially integrity and lifelong learning; third, set high standards for yourself and for those around you so that you are constantly challenging yourself and them to reach greater heights. Don't settle for the normal; and fourth, always strive to make a positive impact in your community and the world.

If you live your life guided by these four areas, I am confident that you will have an excellent life!

Go out, serve, be the best, and keep us informed of your exploits so we can celebrate you.

Dr. Lola Odubekun

Interim Vice Chancellor

Dear Graduates of the USIU-Africa Class of 2024!

It is my great pleasure to congratulate you at this very special time of graduation from USIU-Africa. The focus, discipline, energy and creativity that you have dedicated to your studies and extra-curricular commitments here will certainly stand you in good stead going forward.

Wherever you find yourselves—in the workplace, starting or expanding your businesses or families, or going on to graduate school and more—please be sure to consider the time spent and your journey within this university.

As you head out to "go places" around the world were you also able to locate the still place within yourself that helped you understand your personal motivations and desires, and more clearly, formulate a vision for your future and the possible impact you will have in this world. From my vantage point, many of you have.

t has been an honor to get to know of your dreams and I hope you know that the dynamism and generosity you embody is deeply inspiring.

In fact, while one might interpret the spirit of Empowering Excellence as something USIU-Africa hopes to have done for you, I think of it as more of a symbiotic process. By speaking up, engaging in dialogue, and even leading the way for change within these walls, you have contributed to the continuing journey toward excellence at USIU-Africa. Within the university and the various communities here and outside you have been and are an essential member of the process of excellence.

Therefore, I hope you will always question, be part of the solution, and inspire those around you. Just as I hope that in walking with you through part of your life's journey, USIU-Africa has empowered the excellence that you embody.

Congratulations, farewell and Godspeed to you all: the Inspiring and Excellent Class of 2024!"

Prof. Amos Njuguna

Deputy Vice Chancellor- Transformative Teaching, Learning and Research

Empowering Excellence through the Lens of Transformational Teaching, Learning, and Research

As we celebrate the achievements of the 2024 graduating class, I reflect on the journey that has brought us to this moment. The theme "Empowering Excellence" resonates with transformational teaching, learning, and research, which is the core of the USIU-Africa strategy. This education philosophy has shaped your academic experiences. You have become agents of change in an increasingly complex world.

With transformational teaching, we have inspired you to to think critically, question assumptions, and explore new ideas. You are empowered to take intellectual risks, engage in meaningful dialogue, and develop the skills necessary to solve complex problems. You have endured many collaborative projects, experiential learning, new technologies and community service activities that have earned you the ultimate prize. You are not just educated but well prepared to tackle the challenges of the future with creativity, confidence, and a commitment to excellence.

The global landscape has undergone significant transformations, driven by technological advancements and global challenges–including climate change, health and food security amongst others. You have experienced, firsthand how these changes have affected communities through your class projects, internships and community engagements. I have confidence that you will contribute to the resolution of some of these challenges – adapt to your new environment, new technologies and remember that true excellence is not a destination but a continuous journey of growth and self-improvement.

I congratulate you for adapting to digital platforms while in campus. The sudden shift to these technologies was a test of resilience, adaptability, and the ability to thrive in uncertainty. You rose to this challenge with remarkable determination.

You engaged in transformational research - from healthcare and technology to business and social sciences. You were at the forefront of contributing to projects that tackle real-world challenges, from improving access to healthcare in underserved communities to developing sustainable business models, to using technology to solve challenges and addressing environmental concerns. I urge you to scale your research efforts to support innovation, and make a lasting impact on the world.

As you go out there, remember that the true measure of excellence is not in accolades or titles but in the impact we have on others. Apply the knowledge and skills with a deep sense of responsibility to better the society.

As you step into the next chapter of your lives, I wish you success, fulfillment, and the courage to continue striving for excellence in all that you do. Your journey of learning and growth does not end here; it is just beginning. As you embark on this journey, carry with you the values, knowledge, and experiences that will empower you to lead, inspire, and transform the world."

Dr. Victor Boiyo

Deputy Vice Chancellor-Student Life

The Price of Greatness!
We are NOT born with excellence— we attain it through discipline and commitment.

I can only imagine what you are feeling as you graduate. Thirteen years ago, I felt excited to receive a bachelor's degree. I reflected on my four years at the University. Among the questions that lingered on my mind that day was: Is this it? What next? Will I get a job immediately? I wish I could answer these questions here, but I would rather focus on you. It is your day.

We celebrate your years of dedication, resilience, and hard work at USIU-Africa that not only culminate with your graduation but also open a new chapter with a deeper commitment to a lifelong journey of learning. You have gained a wealth of knowledge and skills—tools that will be crucial in helping you become valuable in playing your part in solving complex global challenges. I am compelled to remind you that the road to success is always under construction, and you need to commit yourself to a lifestyle of excellence which is the price of greatness.

Excellence is expensive, it is a road less travelled, but it is WORTH it because it is what makes all the difference. When young people complete their studies and graduate, they are carried away by the idea that they have finished school and sadly succumb to the irresistible attraction almost a default mechanism of pursuit of expediency and the path of least resistance. The lack of discipline and drive to seek to learn more, know better, and do better cripples and extinguishes the passion for excellence. This is the main cause of underachievement and the failure to realize one's true potential.

While at Harvard Kennedy School during the 2023 student conference, Sadh guru made a profound statement, 'Ultimately, your success in life depends on how much clarity you have'. Does it then mean that Success is predictable? Indeed, success is not an accident; sadly, failure is not an accident. People succeed by doing over and over what other successful people do, until these behaviors become a habit. This is crystallized in the law of cause and effect. Friends, when you are not working deliberately to do things that constitute excellence, you end up doing those fun, easy, and low-value things in the short term that lead to frustration, financial worries, and failure.

As you transition, decide what you want, determine the price you ought to pay, and resolve to pay that price." Pay the price, whatever it is, and for as long as it takes. Occasionally, we are willing to pay part of the price. We always have some excuse or rationalization.

The price of greatness must be paid in full and in advance; it is not like a restaurant where you pay after you have enjoyed your meal. Instead, it is like a cafeteria, where you can choose whatever, you want, but you must pay for it before you eat it. We have no option but to cultivate the discipline of being excellent in all we do.

Meet you at the gathering of excellence!"

The world is waiting for you!

Prof. Elizabeth Kalunda

Acting Deputy Vice Chancellor-Finance & Operations

As you step across the stage, diplomas in hand, remember that the end is often better than the beginning. The journey through university has been filled with challenges, triumphs, and unforgettable experiences. The world ahead may seem daunting, but remember that you have the knowledge, skills, and resilience to overcome any obstacle. Embrace the unknown with courage and optimism. The world is yours to shape, so go forth and make your mark.

Don't be afraid to take risks, to fail, and to learn from your mistakes. The most successful people are often those who have faced adversity and persevered. Cherish the friendships you've made along the way, for they will be a lifelong source of support and inspiration.

"Excellence is never an accident. It is always the result of high intention, sincere effort, and intelligent execution; it represents the wise choice of many alternatives, choice not chance determines your destiny."

THE GRADUATING CLASS OF 2024

SCHOOL OF HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES (SHSS)

Prof. Martin C. Njoroge

Dean, SHSS

"Congratulations to you, Graduating Class of 2024!

I can attest to the fact that you are the epitome of USIU-Africa's vison of being a premier institution of academic excellence with a global perspective. You have run the race. You have excelled. The future is brighter for you because the degree you have attained today empowers you to forge forward and excel in the spaces that you will occupy, today and onwards.

For the last ten semesters or so, you have diligently applied yourself to learning and unlearning in the various degree programs you pursued. You invested your time and resources towards achievement of academic excellence. Academic excellence involves consistently achieving high academic performance, and demonstrating exceptional skills in learning, critical thinking, and problem-solving. It encompasses a strong work ethic, commitment to continuous improvement, and the ability to apply knowledge effectively. This is a journey you have walked and excelled in. Today, therefore, marks an important milestone in your life's journey as we join you to celebrate the fruit of your hard work, resilience and perseverance. This graduation thus must ignite a divine call to purpose within each one of you: the call to excellence must be mirrored beyond university into your life.

To excel in your post-university life, you must be enthusiastic, humble, hardworking in whatever you do. This is the fire that will drive your actions. In whatever you undertake, big or small, with audience or in solitude, put your soul into it. Pursue your passion with enthusiasm, aspire to achieve excellence and you surely will. You will be competing with many others for opportunities, resources and attention. Actually, you are competing for something daily. Competition is a skill you must get used to, moving onwards. While all of us compete largely on similar wave length, let excellence define you. Limits and challenges will be there, treat them as illusions. Aim for more than good; pursue excellence.

I believe USIU-Africa has empowered you to excel wherever you will be placed to serve. Ours today is to celebrate you but most importantly to charge you with the mandate to go out there and excel! I do wish you every blessing in your journey of life."

Viva Class of 2024!

Accept our humble congratulations as you mark this crucial milestone in your academic journey. Indeed, the journey has been tumultuous, punctuated with both highs and lows.

May this yearbook bring back many cherished memories of your USIU-Africa experience.

The School of Communication, Cinematic and Creative Arts fraternity is extremely proud of you.

The world outside there awaits your greatness. Go out and demonstrate what our good institution has imparted into you. As you move forward, follow your dreams but always remember your alma mater. From orientation to graduation, witnessing your growth has been the best part of our lives.

We strongly believe that indeed, the education acquired from our institution will take you places. The USIU-Africa prides itself in a diverse and dynamic alumni evidenced by the tremendous trendsetting achievements globally.

According to Aristotle, 'excellence is never an accident. It is always the result of higher intention, sincere effort, and intelligent execution; it represents the wise choice of many alternatives, choice not chance determines your destiny'. It is my hope that the knowledge received from our university will empower excellence in all your endeavors.

As you venture out into the world, remember to keep your heart free from hate, your mind from worry. Live simply, expect little, give much, sing often, pray always. Fill your life with love, scatter sunshine, forget self, think of others. Do as you would be done by.

Dear Graduates,

It is with immense pride and heartfelt congratulations that I address you on this significant milestone in your academic journey. As the Dean of the School of Pharmacy and Health Sciences, I have had the privilege of witnessing your growth, dedication, and commitment to excellence over the past years. Today, we celebrate not just your achievements but also the bright futures that await you in the fields of pharmacy and health sciences.

The journey to this point has been filled with challenges, rigorous coursework, and countless hours of study and practice. It has also been marked by moments of triumph, discovery, and the forging of lifelong friendships. Each of you has demonstrated resilience, intellectual curiosity, and a passion for your chosen field, qualities that will undoubtedly serve you well as you embark on your professional careers.

Our school is committed to advancing health care through innovation, research, and compassionate care. You, our graduates, are the embodiment of this mission. As you step into your roles as healthcare professionals, remember that your education here has equipped you not only with knowledge and skills but also with a sense of responsibility and a commitment to improving the lives of others.

The world of health care is ever-evolving, and it needs leaders who are not just knowledgeable but also empathetic and forward-thinking. I am confident that each of you possesses these qualities. Continue to seek out new knowledge, embrace challenges as opportunities for growth, and always strive to make a positive impact in the communities you serve.

As you turn the page to this new chapter, remember that you will always be a part of the School of Pharmacy and Health Sciences family. Stay connected with your peers, your mentors, and your alma mater. Your journey does not end here; it is just the beginning of a lifelong commitment to learning and service.

Congratulations once again on your remarkable achievement. I wish you all the best in your future endeavors and look forward to hearing about the many ways in which you will contribute to the betterment of health care and society."

I am filled with pride and hope as you stand on the cusp of your future, decked up in the academic success regalia. Not only does your graduation symbolize the end of years of toil and devotion, it also signals new beginnings where each of you will use your exceptional abilities to influence the world in which you live. This year's graduation theme, "Empowering Excellence" speaks perfectly to USIU-Africa's mission statement. Excellence is not just a desired outcome but also a style of thinking that inspires people to go above and beyond the norm and pursue greatness in all they do. It is fostered by tenacity, modesty and a dedication to ongoing personal development. Throughout your academic careers, each of you has exhibited these traits by rising to the occasion, accepting diversity and adhering to the principles like discipline and integrity that are now being rewarded on this great day. And because success is quite often a team outcome as much as it is an individual effort, I urge you to pause and consider the relationships and events that have enriched your path and shaped who you are as you celebrate your successes today. As you begin a new chapter in your lives, remember to always uphold the excellence-driven mindset that USIU-Africa instilled in you. Allow this mindset to direct your decisions and actions as you negotiate the challenges of the working world, aiming for excellence in all that you do.

Keep in mind that although success may not always come easily, those who endure with resiliency and integrity always accomplish what they plan to do. Respect the principles of integrity, kindness and decency towards others as these are the cornerstones of real excellence. Afterall, genuine excellence involves not only achieving personal success but also positively influencing other people's lives and making a significant contribution to society It is therefore my prayer that you will take the lessons you've learned here with you and use them as a source of inspiration as you strive to improve the world.

Again, congratulations on this incredible accomplishment. May you always inspire excellence in the spaces that life will take you.

Dr. Ruth Mwai

University Registrar

Dear Graduating Class of 2024,

Graduation is a time of celebration, reflection, and anticipation. It marks the culmination of years of hard work, dedication, and perseverance. It's a moment filled with pride, excitement, and a hint of uncertainty. As you step forward into this new beginning, brace yourself with this concept that is both a beacon and a guide: "Empowering Excellence."

Excellence is often associated with outstanding achievements, high standards, and exceptional performance. It is not merely a destination but a journey, an ongoing process of striving to be the best version of yourself both personally and professionally. It is about setting high standards, ambitious goals, pushing boundaries, maintaining a strong work ethic being resilient in the face of challenges and continually improving. To achieve this, believe in your potential. Potential is the innate ability to develop, achieve, and succeed. It is the latent qualities or abilities that may be developed and lead to future success or usefulness. Everyone possesses potential, but it is belief in that potential that turns possibility into reality. Believing in your potential means recognizing your unique strengths and talents, and having the confidence to pursue your dreams and goals.

Also, embrace lifelong learning. The world is evolving at an unprecedented pace. It is therefore necessary for us all to adopt a mindset that prioritizes continuous education and self-improvement throughout our life. Be curious, be inquisitive, and never stop learning. Knowledge is the fuel that powers excellence.

In addition, set ambitious goals and work diligently towards them. It is a great approach to achieving success. Excellence is not achieved overnight. It requires hard work, perseverance, and resilience. Set clear, challenging goals and pursue them with unwavering determination. Remember, the road to excellence is often paved with obstacles, but each challenge is an opportunity to grow stronger and wiser.

Do not forget to engage a positive mindset. Attitude is everything. Cultivate optimism, resilience, and gratitude. A positive mindset not only enhances your own performance but also inspires those around you. Surround yourself with positivity and be a source of encouragement and support to others. Finally, act with integrity and humility. True excellence is grounded in strong moral principles and a humble spirit. Be honest, ethical, and respectful in all your endeavours.

As you leave this institution, remember that you carry the torch of excellence. Use it to light the way for yourself and others. Your journey may be challenging, but it will also be immensely rewarding.

Congratulations, class of 2024!!
Go forth and empower excellence in everything you do."

Dr. Sylvia Ogola

University Librarian

To the Class of 2024,

USIU-Africa embodies excellence and has prepared you and provided you with everything that it takes to unlock the door to your personal excellence. You have been exposed to an environment that has empowered you to expect nothing but the best and been offered the opportunity to be the best version of yourself.

As you venture into another chapter of your life, the experiences, challenges conquered, networks built over the last few years and lessons learned will forever remain with you. Be true to yourself, keep your word, make good your promises and be open to change as you strive for excellence. Always keep in mind that you are in charge of your destiny, the decisions and choices you make, the paths you choose, all lie in your hands.

The journey to excellence, like any other journey starts with a step and is continuous, so is learning – be open to learning from others, read widely, maintain a positive attitude and most of all, be selective in the company you keep because many a time, it defines who you become.

Over the years, life has dealt me many hands- some good and others not so good- and what has kept me going is knowing that if I keep moving forward, I will get to the other side. Do not give up on your dreams, keep moving forward and whatever you do, give it your best and remember to always do it well the first time – make this a habit and you will have made a big leap in making a positive impact on your personal excellence. As the saying goes, 'Shoot for the Moon, and even if you Miss, you'll Land among the Stars'.

Ms. Racheal Ngumi

Gender, Equity and Protection Office

A Mark of Greatness and Achievement!

Your commitment and hard work have paved the way to your success. This year's theme is close to the heart. Empowering Excellence not only means your dedication to strive for success but also means celebrating your zeal to overcome barriers, embrace challenges to achieve greatness in your journey.

In the words of Franklin D. Roosevelt, "The only limit to our realization of tomorrow will be our doubts of today." As you celebrate your graduation, remember to take a look in the rear-view mirror to see how far you've come. Take time to appreciate the present moment, and look to the future with hope and optimism!

This momentous occasion marks your stepping stone to greatness and achievement. As you mark it, remember to embrace diversity, create innovation, be fair and strive to make the world a better place as you have been given the tools to mold it.

Congratulation Class of 2024!

Congratulations to our pioneering Cohort 1 of the Mastercard Foundation Scholars Program at USIU-Africa. Today, I'm delighted to see 17 exceptional Scholars graduate, marking a significant milestone for both you and our Program. Your journey reflects the growth, learnings and achievement in our partnership with the Mastercard Foundation, which began in July 2020.

Reflecting on the growth of the Program since its inception in July 2020, it is inspiring to see how we have recruited, educated, and prepared youth from diverse backgrounds, including young women, refugee and internally displaced youth, and youth with disabilities. We have recruited nine cohorts of 1,076 Scholars from 29 African countries. This includes 64% young women, 21% refugee and displaced persons, 6% persons with disabilities, 62% international Scholars, and 38% Kenyan Scholars.

Our partnership with the Mastercard Foundation has been instrumental in delivering a transformational educational experience that prepares our Scholars to make a tangible impact in the society. As the Mastercard Foundation works towards its mission to support 100,000 young people over the next decade, we look forward to our continued partnership.

To the graduating Scholars, as you step into the future albeit unclear, you carry the responsibility of shaping it. Use the education experience you have acquired here at USIU-Africa to reimagine and contribute positively in every space you find yourself in. Our institution has consistently aspired to be the best and provide the best, and I urge you to pursue excellence, draw lessons from your past challenges, and innovate with integrity and live out the values of transformative leadership.

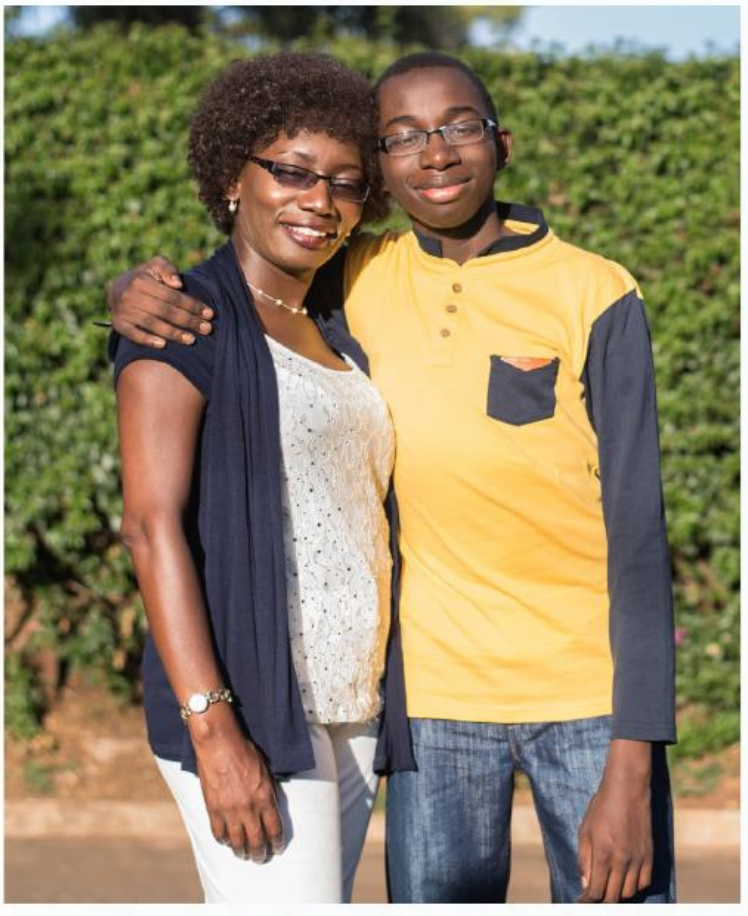

Stay connected with your alma mater and the Mastercard Foundation Scholars Program through the extensive alumni networks, and continue to embody the values of excellence, innovation, ethics, and diversity. Congratulations once again, and may your future be all that you envisioned it to be and much more."

IN MEMORIAM

Reuben Warambo

Congratulations Graduating Class of 2024!

You are standing in that historic moment in which looking back you are feeling a great sense of accomplishment, and looking forward you will be seeking to live out your vision. If you are experiencing a mix of emotion and waves of apprehension, you are justified. And if you are feeling none of these you are equally justified. Whichever way you feel, your academic and social experiences at USIU have tooled and skilled you, and built your capacity in preparation to take on the World and act, always in pursuit of excellence.

Privileged to have been a freshman among you and now deceased, Reuben often spoke about the significance of being resilient while radiating excellence in thought, word and deed; we called it "living excellently." This awareness of the need for excellence and resilience in every action was brought about by the frequent interaction with medical professionals as a person living with Sickle Cell disease on the one hand, and with his own lived reality of physical and psychological shortfalls on the other. His was a conundrum, to survive as long as he did, he needed excellent professional care, and to be a student here and friend worth his salt, he needed to be excellent at what he chose to do. While the former depends on institutional frameworks, the latter requires a deliberateness, resilience, and high expectation of the self while being alive to our limits. It is in this latter sense that you will continue empowering excellence.

What does Empowering excellence mean? Well, it will require you to first internalize excellence as a virtue to be expressed in your character as a graduate of USIU. Therefore, as a graduate of the esteemed USIU, step out into the world with confidence and boldness, continuously seeking knowledge, asking questions and adding value. Second, engage in opportunities without trepidation while avoiding self-sabotage through resilience and setting boundaries. Third, remaining true to the cause of humanity for the greater good, and fourth, empowering excellence requires you to consistently make wise choices, consult, share and care, and transform lives. In Reuben's own words – "You got This!'"

Dr. Kathleen Anangwe

Ms. Stacie Mwangi,

Chair, Criminal Justice Club; Club of the Year 2024

"Leading the Criminal Justice Club has been an absolute honor. This club is a perfect depiction of quality over quantity. Even in our small numbers, we have stood out so greatly and set the standards so highly. And for that, I want to extend my heartfelt gratitude to the members of this club and the team that I led with. Our journey together has been marked by such unimaginable milestones.

As I look back to where my journey as a student leader began, I am increasingly appreciative of the support I have received from the USIU-Africa community. As I strongly believe, one of the most humbling things in life is when your potential is given room. All the strides, the achievements, the heights, speak to servant leadership and the power of community. It truly takes a village! (Some reminding you of your potential, some pushing you to soar to the greatest of heights, some advising you, some supporting you, some offering you that listening ear, some cheering you on and some opening doors for you!)

Our award as the Most OUTSTANDING club/-society of the year 2024 during the Gala Awards was a culmination of commitment, determination, hardwork, passion and ambition truly, the heights yield to endeavor! (or if you like, strenuis ardua cedunt!) Motivated by the need to create awareness on criminal justice, I convened the first ever Criminal Justice Week, purely student-led and spanning over three full days! May this be your sign to lead with passion and commitment, because with those, you are unstoppable!

Let us go forth and conquer!"

OUTSTANDING STUDENTS' FEATURES

WALTER NGANO

JOURNALISM

Saturday ,October 12th, officially marks the end of my journey as a USIU student. I will be PROUDLY GRADUATING with a BACHELOR'S DEGREE in Journalism with a minor in Psychology - Cum Laude. Cue the meme: "Siri, how do you say 'graduated' in Spanish?"

My time here has been profound in many ways. Overall, my freshman year was alright. Sophomore year was a mixed year for me. I started getting out of my shell a bit more. With journalism, you kinda have to. Class sessions are not enough. Prior to joining uni, I had a long standing interest in photography. So naturally, I went this route. Zeddy from the Journalism department (USIU'S MOST OUTSTANDING STAFF MEMBER EASILY) were really instrumental in helping me and hooked me up with the Marketing & Communications department.
I started doing some gigs with Marketing like the 44th Commencement, Mr & Miss USIU and Culture Night (2022).

This really helped me get a foothold in student affairs outside the ordinary space that we are normally in. And this came to help me later in my time at the school, which I will touch on later. Also, I improved my photography skills. Second year was also the time I started to expand my social circle. With school heading back to full physical learning this was a smooth sequential process. I got into a friendship group. Yeah- Chama cha Freida. Those guys are the bomb really. Personally, I don't do so well with cliques, never have. But these guys really made it worthwhile. Ernest, Leslie, Lynn, Lesley, Kelly, Annabel, Jomo, Katua et al .

Junior year (2023) was surely the highlight of my time at USIU-Africa. The reason why I am writing this tbh. In late May, I was tasked with a massive project that changed my life for the better or rather, set me on the path that I am on. The Media and Communications department tasked me with creating and leading a team to revive the defunct print publication of USIU. In the context of things, this was big. The publication is made up of a newspaper- The USIU GAZETTE and magazine- SAUTI. The last edition was done in 2019. Covid-19 and a vacuum in the leadership of the Media & Comms department lead to its 'death.' Reviving it would not be an easy job.

First, the print section of Journalism is not that popular. So getting people to participate in it would be an uphill task. Surprisingly, when we sent out a call for applications for the various positions, we got more applications than what we expected. However, retaining the people we chose was the issue. I say "we" since there was a core team chosen to actualise the project. We were only three- Leslie Kashando- Sauti Editor, Prof Fred Faculty Support and I. We officially started working on the project in the summer of 23 (real ones know what I have just done here). This was my most grueling but fulfilling time in uni. In terms of workload, I don't think all the courses I did combined come close to the Gazette project. (Okay I might be exaggerating.) But genuinely, the Gazette was something else.

It had everything. I have to confess, I always saw the people who had modeled their entire personality around school affairs as guys who could do better but I quickly regretted it. In every shape and form, I became that person. Monday to Saturday you would find me in school. Editing Lab 1 became my de facto office. It reached a point where the security guards at Lillian Beam had become accustomed to seeing me and members of my team. Speaking of the team, I have to give a HUUGEE and special shout out to the GazetteXSauti core team- Nala, Ernest and Leslie. Without those guys, this project would not have been possible. It would have been a pipe dream.

In January 2024, we finally achieved our goal and delivered the first post-Covid publication of the USIU Gazette X Sauti. We had a responsibility to USIU-A students and we kept up our end of the bargain. Secured our legacy and left our mark.
In essence, that is what an excellent student is to me. Willing to put in the hard work, push boundaries and adapt to the situation you are in. In the media space, we say 'Adapt or Die' and this is no different in life. Always adapt to the situation. Be stubborn with the vision but flexible with the journey.
Maintain a strong mentality. It's easy to feel down when life doesn't go your way but you have to lock in. Don't be rigid though. Be willing to accept your current situation and try to control the controllables. USIU has helped me realize this.
USIU for me has been one big journey of unlearning and learning as I go on. And I mean this in the best way. This life thing, you just have to be open minded about it. Have your values, yes !But, you'll get exposed to different situations that will make you rethink things. I hope USIU continues to be a place where one not only goes to learn but to also grow and expand their human capacity. USIU-Africa's motto is 'Education to take you places' but I think it should be 'Life experience to take you places'
YOUR TIME IS NOW!!!

DONNA

JOURNALISM

I was part of that unfortunate lot that completed high school in 2020. COVID-19 robbed me of the single most important day of my teenage life: my graduation. How did I cope with this disappointment, you ask? I didn't. As the world grappled with the widespread effects of the pandemic, I was in my room filming TikToks. I was chronically online. Got stuck in a couple echo chambers. Knew how many tiles were on the kitchen floor. And I developed a morbid obsession with Dr. Pimple Popper. Needless to say, I wasn't doing too good mentally.

I did my first two semesters online. It didn't take me long to figure out that I hated the entire concept of virtual learning.I was relieved when USIU announced that it was resuming physical classes. Finally! This was my chance to experience university in real-time and not through my laptop screen. Through all the highs and lows, my family has been my anchor. When I was struggling with the transition from virtual learning to in-person classes, it was my mom's voice that kept me grounded.

It was in January of 2022 that everything changed. I joined the journalism club and soon after was elected as secretary. This was a pivotal moment in my self discovery journey. Our weekly club meetings restored my sense of purpose. It now felt like I was a part of something greater than myself: a community. I was finally experiencing the diversity and academic excellence that was promised in those USIU brochures!

With my newfound confidence, I auditioned to be a host on USIU radio and landed a slot on air. If you can't already tell, I love to yap and radio gave me the space to do just that. To say I was thrilled would be an understatement. Everything about the studio fascinated me. From the mixer to the mics, I was in awe. Radio was an art form that I mastered painstakingly.

The tide also changed in my social circle. I truly lucked out in the friendship department! I don't think I ever understood the meaning of true love and intentionality until I met them. They are my biggest cheerleaders and I thank God for them everyday. We've laughed together, cried together and grown together. Our gossip sessions at Cafe Latta are truly the highlight of my campus experience. Thanks to them my mind is doused with memories of road trips, bowling tournaments, picnic dates and bike rides. Through it all, they have remained my strongest support system.

While USIU is primarily an educational institution, the impact it has had on me goes beyond the academics. This university has moulded me into an open-minded, confident, outspoken individual. Throughout my time on campus, I have come to appreciate the idiosyncrasies of every voice, mine included. Therefore, I refuse to stay quiet because behind the smokescreen of silence is always an undue fear of reproach. A fear that I no longer possess.

Additionally, USIU redefined the term excellence for me. I always thought that excellence meant perfection. But this is far from true. Excellence, in fact, embraces imperfection. The process of becoming excellent often involves failing, re-evaluating, and trying again. It's an active pursuit rather than a destination.

Excellence, to me, is about striving to be better when no one's watching. It's in the extra hour spent refining an idea, the willingness to learn from failure, and the humility to ask for help.

My journey at USIU-Africa hasn't been linear. But whose is? It's clear that the road to excellence is not a straight line. From my initial struggles with online learning, to the freedom and missteps of university life, and finally finding my footing, I've learned that excellence isn't about having it all together. It's about learning from failures, leaning on those who love you, and allowing yourself to grow through discomfort.

As I look to the future, I'm confident that my time at USIU-Africa has already opened doors for me. Securing my current position at a PR firm is a direct result of the skills and experiences I gained here. Whether navigating my role in Public Relations or exploring new opportunities, I feel prepared to approach challenges with creativity, adaptability, and a global perspective. USIU has given me the tools to thrive—and if this journey is anything like the last few years, I know it'll be one wild, exciting ride!

Now, a round of applause for this graduating baddie!😛👏

2024 USIU-AFRICA YEARBOOK TEAM

Working on this yearbook has been quite the experience. I have experienced many of you in a way I would never have had the opportunity to if I did not take on this challenge. I have grown a great deal from our interactions. I pray that as we all reflect back on this book in years to come, the memories fill us with joy.

JK,
Editor-in-Chief

May the favor and grace that have been upon you and enabled you to complete your studies at USIU-Africa continue to guide you as you stretch your wings to reach even greater heights.

Whitney Akinyi,
Quality Control Officer
& Lead Graphic Designer

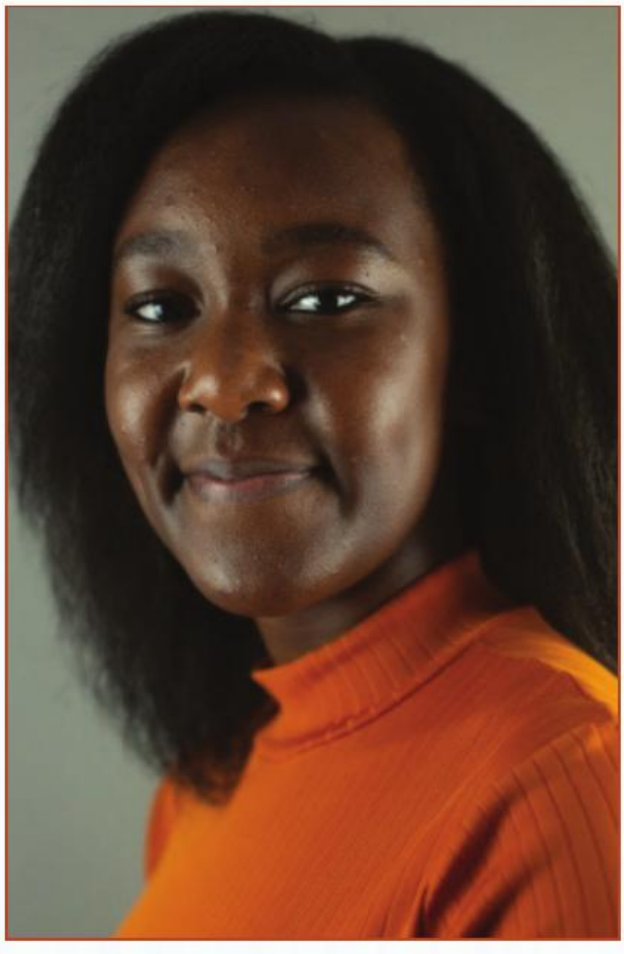

Working with this incredible team has been an inspiring journey. Together, we've captured moments that will last a lifetime. Here's to the dedication, creativity, and camaraderie that made this year unforgettable. Let's continue to cherish these memories and look forward to even more amazing experiences ahead. Congratulations to the class of 2024!

Pearl Kansiime,
Advertising Officer

Guess who finally made it into the yearbook? After the disaster of last year, I couldn't let another tragedy happen. Just glad I met _____ this year. Anyways, check this cute cat pics.

Baschirou Abdel Karim,
Layout Designer

As the photo editor for the 2024 yearbook, this year's process was much smoother than in 2023. With better collaboration and clearer direction, we captured USIU-Africa's vibrant moments seamlessly. It's been a rewarding challenge, pushing my creativity and allowing us to produce a visually stunning collection that truly reflects our community.

Talak Patel,
Photo-Editor

As part of the USIU Yearbook Committee, I, Nyariana Oluoch, brought my passion for photography to capture the unforgettable moments of our student community. My love for art, graphic design, and swimming fuels my creativity, while working with people made the experience even more rewarding. It was an inspiring journey, combining my hobbies with a meaningful project.

Nyariana Oluoch,
Photographer

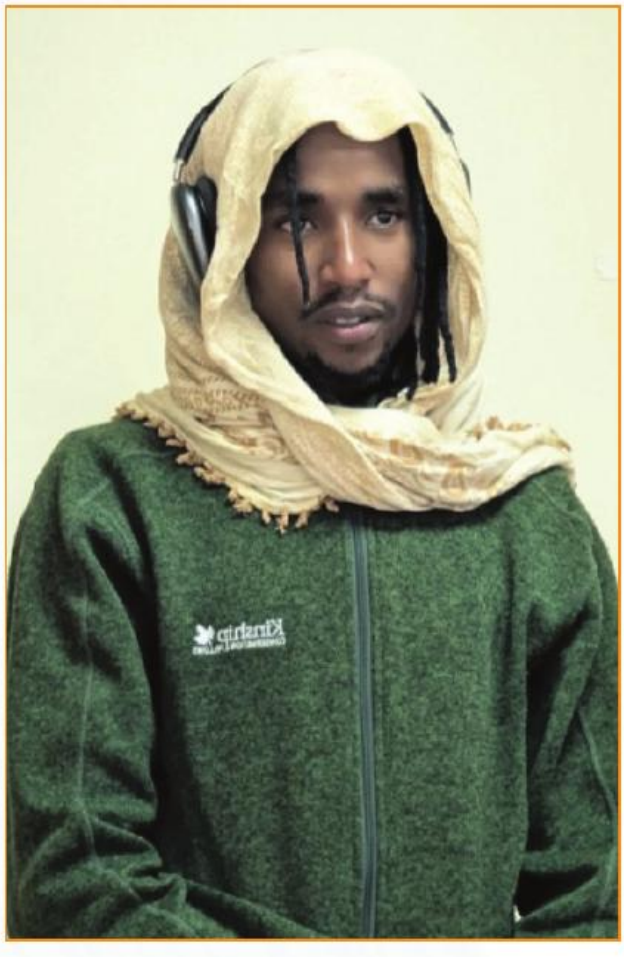

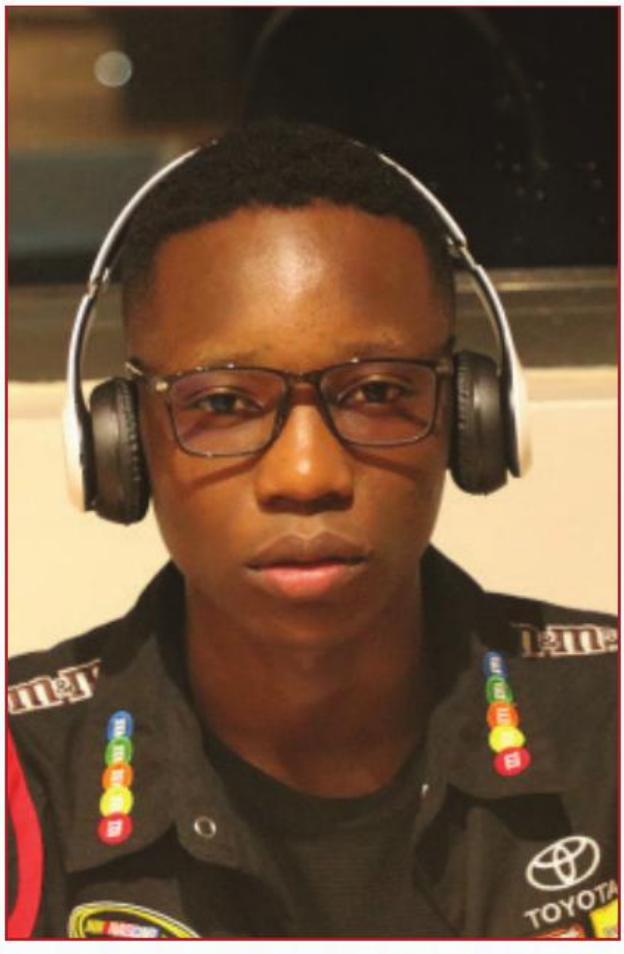

Working as a photographer and editor for USIU-Africa's 2024 Yearbook Team enhanced my ability to produce compelling images under tight deadlines. It taught me how to merge creative and technical thinking, and reinforced the importance of teamwork and narrative creation in achieving the final result.

Carolyne Kabibi,

Working on this year's yearbook has been an exciting achievement for me. With so many ups and down we had, I had to tie my braces back get the work done. I hope you enjoy this yearbook.

Ian Kahiro,

Being part of this year's yearbook team was an invaluable experience. Huge thanks to the entire team and special shoutout to JK for his outstanding leadership. I'm grateful for the journey and proud of what we achieved together!

Anthony Okoth,
Photographer

As a member of the yearbook committee, I had the opportunity to bring creativity and structure together to make sure that each page not only has a pleasing appearance but also tells a story that captures the essence of our year. I am honored to have helped create something that will serve as a lasting memory for everyone

Najma Ali Maalim,
Layout Designer

Curiosity fuels my journey. I explore, I question, and I seek the unknown. Through learning, I transform challenges into opportunities, always striving for knowledge that impacts and inspires. The world is my lab, and each discovery is a step toward a brighter future. God Bless you Class of 2024.

Kevin Opiyo,
Interim Secretary & Researcher
